

Toni M. Whited
Brief Bio

Toni M. Whited is the Kuechenmeister-Bascom Professor at the Wisconsin School of Business at the University of Wisconsin, Madison. She earned a B.A. from the University of Oregon in 1984, majoring in French literature and economics. She earned a Ph.D. from Princeton University in 1990 in economics, working with Ben Bernanke. Professor Whited worked at the Federal Reserve Board and was on the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, Northwestern University, the University of Michigan, and the University of Iowa before joining the University of Wisconsin in 2003. In July 2008 she will be joining the Simon School at the University of Rochester.

Professor Whited has taught in a wide variety of areas in finance, macroeconomics, and econometrics at the undergraduate, MBA, and doctoral levels. Professor Whited has published over 20 articles and has twice won a Brattle Prize for one of the top articles in the Journal of Finance in corporate finance. Her research deals primarily with the effects of financial markets on firm capital budgeting decisions. She has also conducted research in the areas of theoretical econometrics, asset pricing, macroeconomics, and corporate debt policy. Professor Whited serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Financial Economics and the Journal of Macroeconomics and was one of the founding co-editors of Finance Research Letters.